IT BEGS TO BE DRIVEN.

Look at it just sitting there. The new 2005 Focus on the page of a brochure. In perpetual idle. To say it's wrong is an understatement. This car belongs on the road. And a demanding, lean-into-the-curves kind of road, at that. Four bodystyles to choose from. Three fully independent, European-inspired suspensions. New tires, wheels and larger brakes. New larger shocks. It all adds up to control and more responsive handling. Such attention to driving details is why it keeps showing up on the Car and Driver 10Best list. For the fifth year in a row. Now, does that sound like a car that should be trapped on paper to you? Come on. Don't make it beg.

Focus ZXW

Focus ZX4 ST

Car and Driver 10Best, 5 years running
(2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004)

1. Focus offers three European-inspired suspensions. The highest level can be found in the ZX4 ST – giving this sedan incredible control and steering precision.
2. There are all-new audio systems to choose from, including an available Audiophile™ System with Sound Designed by Sony. Available audio controls are conveniently mounted on the steering column so it's easier to keep your eyes on the road. No need to miss a thing.
3. The new 2.0L Duratec 20 DOHC I4 engine is not only more powerful, but also offers improved fuel economy and lower emissions.*
4. Restyled throughout. The all-new instrument panel features a cleaner, more contemporary look.
5. The all-new interior revamps storage space, fabric choice, even noise level. More usable. Better looking. And now quieter.
6. Store up to six of your favorites in this all-new, easily reached CD bin.

Audiophile is a trademark of Audiophile, Inc.

*The 2.0L Duratec 20 engine is "greener," based on lower emissions than the 2004 2.0L Zetec and SPI engines. Based on '04 2.0L vs. '05 2.0L Duratec 20 DOHC engine emissions.

HUGS THE HIGH ROAD.

In the trade-off between performance and emissions, there is no trade-off. And it's all thanks to what's offered under the hood of this car. The Focus lineup features an all-new family of Duratec I4 engines that offer both improved fuel economy and lower emissions.* (Which nets out to be 32% cleaner, in case you were wondering.) And yet, horsepower has increased at least 23% across the entire Focus line. So that means they move. Quickly. Which translates into performance. All the while giving you longer driving range between fill-ups with the help of a new larger fuel tank. Which ultimately means you have nothing to lose. Period.

*The 2.0L Duratec 20 engine is "greener," based on lower emissions than the 2004 2.0L Zetec and SPI engines. Based on '04 2.0L vs. '05 2.0L Duratec 20 DOHC engine emissions.

HAS A PARKING METER PHOBIA.

Here's a car that can't sit still: the 2005 Focus ZX4 ST. Considered the performance sedan of the lot, it has the features to prove it. Like its performance-tuned suspension. This top-of-the-line suspension is built for the serious driver, providing the highest level of driving dynamics. Think stretches of asphalt. S-turns upon S-turns. Drive-a-rama. Or how about its new 2.3L Duratec 23 DOHC? This engine is only available in the ST and goes perfectly with a 5-speed manual transmission. Put that together with a sport-tuned exhaust system and larger displacement, and what you get is 151 horses and 154 lb.-ft. of torque. (Not to mention the most powerful Focus engine available.) Now, can you blame it for not wanting to slow down?
