The Cirrus Balance.

So well balanced is the luxurious Cirrus that its Chrysler engineers have succeeded in fusing the appearance and feel of a sporty two-door with the cultivated amenities and comforting safety of a four-door, thereby setting a whole new standard for the class.

Cirrus, whether a top-of-the-line LXi or the nicely equipped LX. It's not just a step above. It's the new plateau.

SPORTY IS THE MOST APT DESCRIPTION. Like premium

Lexus models, Cirrus is built around rail-through construction — two continuous underbody rails of high-strength steel running uninterrupted from the front of the car straight to the rear — giving Cirrus best-in-class body stiffness. The stiffer a car's framework the less it will shake. Add a modified double-wishbone suspension to the mix, and you have an exceptionally sporty and quiet ride.

Cirrus' four-wheel antilock brakes prevent lockup

during hard braking, allowing you to maintain steering control.

Controlled electronically for optimum shift points, the four-speed automatic "learns" your driving mannerisms. Speed-sensitive power steering provides low effort for slow speeds and parking, and a sports-car feel at highway speeds. Highway merges are a cinch with the twin counterbalance shaft smooth 2.4-liter DOHC SMPI 16-valve four-cylinder engine that generates 150 hp at 5,200 rpm.

A 168-horsepower 2.5-liter SOHC SMPI 24-valve V6 power plant is available on LX and LXi.

Cirrus' four-wheel fully independent modified double-wishbone suspension handles with precision.

Nearly 96 cubic feet of interior volume makes Cirrus roomier than Accord, Altima, Contour and Mystique.

Air conditioning, electronic speed control and a Personal Security Group are standard.

CAB FORWARD MAKES WAY FOR MORE LUXURY

INSIDE. Cirrus' cab-forward innovations create a sleek, aerodynamic appearance; an incredibly spacious interior; and a stable, ultra-quiet ride.

The sound of silence can be broken by turning on LXi's 100-watt premium audio system that boasts a cassette player, eight speakers in six locations and an independent amplifier tucked neatly under the front-passenger seat. Seating on LXi features the luxury of supple leather trim and an eight-way power driver seat. The HomeLink® Universal Transmitter replaces the hand-held garage door opener.

Power windows and door locks are close at hand, while a handy folding rear seatback makes way for bulky goods.

The award-winning Integrated Child Safety Seat*

option provides foldaway security. Security also comes in the form of driver and front-passenger air bags; dynamic side-impact protection, remote keyless entry, illuminated entry and a panic alarm.

LXi is equipped with a sport suspension, 15-inch chrome wheels and a Vehicle Theft Alarm.

*Includes fixed rear seatback. Not available on LX. Always wear your seat belts.

Luxury is in the details. Like the new center floor console. Two front and two stowable rear cup holders, an antirattle cubby bin and a handy new armrest are built in. The armrest cover opens to reveal a coin carrier, pen holder and cassette/CD storage rack underneath. The perfect companion for the available AM/FM stereo radio with a cassette player and accompanying in-dash six-disc CD changer.

Go for the Gold Package: Camel interior; Gold accents on Finale cast aluminum wheels; a Gold rear door LX badge; Gold Chrysler front door nameplates; Gold front and rear fascia accent moldings;*and a Gold Chrysler emblem on the special body-color painted front grille. The Gold Package is available only on LX. Not available on Dark Rosewood or Light Iris.
